

MRS. LUDLOW DELES FRICITION WITH HUSBAND

Wife of Admiral Contends That She Bought
Long Island Mansion.

Mrs. Nichol Ludlow, wife of Admiral Ludlow, U. S. N., when seen at the Shoreham today, denied that there was any friction between herself and husband regarding the ownership of the handsome and spacious mansion at Oakdale, L. I. She declared she purchased the property, which he quitteed interest, and has always held indisputable title to it. Mrs. Ludlow says she did not demand the mansion from her husband, nor did he surrender it to her.

At the time Mrs. Ludlow purchased the property ten years ago there was an old caretaker in the mansion. Recently he became ill and unable to perform his duties. Mrs. Ludlow, who has been living in Washington for three or four months, says she hired another caretaker, and together with another woman took him to the Oakdale, L. I., mansion to explain his duties. Mrs. Ludlow says her only reason for going to Long Island was to turn the property over to the caretaker and instruct him in his duties.

Although Admiral Ludlow was in New York at the time the caretaker was engaged, Mrs. Ludlow says he had nothing to do with the selection of the hired man. After installing the new caretaker, Mrs. Ludlow and her companion returned to Washington. Mrs. Ludlow was Miss Mary McLean, sister of Admiral Dewey's wife and John R. McLean. She was a daughter of Mrs. Bugher, when Read Admiral Ludlow married her about twenty years ago.

It is asserted that he presented his wife with the house, 14 Lafayette square, now occupied by the Brazilian ambassador and his family. Mrs. Ludlow insists that the Oakdale mansion was bought by her.

Admiral Ludlow Leaves in Tears; Plans Long Trip

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Rear Admiral Ludlow has left the family home at Oakdale, L. I., and will live at a club in this city until he goes on a contemplated trip to Mexico.

Rumors of a disagreement between Admiral Ludlow and his wife have been frequent in the past six months, but each denied its existence. Mrs. Ludlow has made her home with relatives in Washington and Admiral Ludlow has resided in the Oakdale villa.

For the last week or ten days vans have carried away furniture and other equipment of the home, and Admiral Ludlow took leave of the place several days ago.

As Admiral Ludlow left the old mansion tears coursed down his cheeks, and his head was heavily bowed. Before leaving the premises he went to the family burying place in the grounds, and graves of his paternal ancestors, and remained there some time. He said he intended visiting Mexico and Central America after a short stay in New York.

It is said Mrs. Ludlow will immediately go to Oakdale, where she has established a residence there with her son, deputy police commissioner of this city.

Although Mrs. Ludlow arrived at Sayville, L. I., the day after her departure to Oakdale, long before her husband left the mansion, she did not go to the villa until informed that he had departed, and thus obviated the necessity of meeting him. The interval of two hours or more was spent by Mrs. Ludlow in the little railway station.

THE THIRSTY VETERAN.
The pitiful poverty of the army veterans, on whose behalf Earl Roberts makes an appeal, is again established by some of them a subtle keenness in securing for themselves those little luxuries which want of money prevents them from obtaining in the ordinary way. An aged hero of the Crimean war and Indian fighting, who resided in a remote village in Scotland, was one day interviewed by a party of gentlemen on an outing. They listened with interest to the story of the old man's share in the above mentioned campaigns, and after thanking him profusely they were about to depart, when the aged warrior suddenly remarked:

"There's another thing, gentlemen, that I can recall to mind. Ah, indeed! What is that?" eagerly asked the tourists, expecting to hear a most interesting reminiscence.

"Gentlemen," said the veteran in impressive tones, "I well remember that I was just as thirsty during the whole of the battle of Inkerman as I am now." The party took the hint.—Dundee Advertiser.

MEDICAL FASHIONS.
There are fashions even in drugs, and the modern woman considers the mode before the medicine.

She has altogether lost faith in those "old-fashioned remedies" which were a source of pride once, and which brought comfort, to sufferers of another age. But a revival of those fearsome bottles and concoctions which were solemnly brewed with an infirmity of faith and no mercy for the victim will never be brought about. There are homely specifics which no woman at the present day would consent to take without an anaesthetic upon the slightest provocation.—Exchange.

FOREST GIFT TO HARVARD.
The cause of scientific forestry the country over will profit by the splendid gift to Harvard University of 2,500 acres of valuable forest land, which has just been announced. There is no better timber in Massachusetts than stand on this tract near Petersham, which has long profited by the scientific methods of forestry in use on that property.—Exchange.

Rich Hair
We publish the formula of Ayer's Hair Vigor. You know what you are using. Your doctor knows why it does things.

You may easily hide your ignorance of South Sea politics or North Pole explorations, but you cannot hide a scraggly, worn-out, ignorant-looking head of hair. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the natural exponent of intelligent hair culture. The hair promptly yields, becomes manageable, appears well. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sweethearts of War Days Married in the Capital

The culmination of a romance lasting more than forty years came yesterday afternoon when James Gaffney, a veteran of the civil war, and Mrs. Honora Burke, who was his first sweetheart, were married at 5 o'clock by the Rev. P. J. O'Connell, at the Church of St. Vincent de Paul. Only a few of the intimate friends of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony. Miss Alice Wood was the maid of honor and Patrick F. Gully, a nephew of the groom, was best man.

At the outbreak of the civil war Mr. Gaffney enlisted as a private in Company K, Fifth Cavalry, of Washington. The couple were engaged at that time, and with tears in her eyes, Mrs. Burke, who was then a girl in her teens, bid him good-bye and promised to wait until his return.

When the struggle drew to a close at the end of four years, Mr. Gaffney returned to Washington to claim his bride. He could not find her, for she had been absent and had moved away.

Mr. Gaffney drifted to Pittsburg and for many years held an important position with the Carnegie Steel Mills. He saved his money and a few years ago was able to retire on his income. He married shortly after the war, but had been a widower for some time. About six months ago he learned that Mrs. Burke was living in Washington in light of her husband's death. He came to Washington and found her. The old friendship was revived and it was decided to carry out the plans that had been laid before the civil war. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gaffney are sixty years of age.

After the ceremony they went to the Hotel Chamberlin at Old Point Comfort. They will spend two weeks at the Virginia resort, after which they will visit St. Augustine and Palm Beach.

THE MOOR OF THE HOUR.
The man of the hour, Mulai el Hadid, has not been proclaimed Sultan of Morocco at Fez without being very much the man for the situation. He has the advantage in the eyes of the faithful of being Moor on both sides. His mother was a Moorish lady, "My poor, misguided brother," the other Sultan, Mulai el Aziz, owed his existence to his father's marriage with a Circassian and she throne to the favor she enjoyed. Mulai el Hadid strongly resembles his father; Mulai el Aziz does not. The one has approved himself a ruler; he was for all ten years the other's viceroy at Marrakesh, where he had vassals to handle who were bigger even than himself; and he handled them without reference to, as without aid from, Fez. These chiefs, territorial proprietors in the Atlas, are on the former viceroy's side today. The case of Abd-ul-Aziz is different. There is a strong exotic dash in his blood, and this has shown itself in other things besides motor cars and state coaches and Parisian proclivities. His ear has been too much turned to foreign counsel, and he has been too much exploited by the foreign adventurer. And now, when his people are disaffected by reason of these things, what are foreign bayonets doing at Casablanca?—London Pall Mall Gazette.

ANGRY BULL ATTACKS FARMER MILKING-COW

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Feb. 20.—Wounds inflicted by a vicious bull on the farm of Mordecai S. Haines, near Roncoocas, sent Oscar Morley to the Burlington County Hospital. Morley was milking a cow in the stable when attacked. In an adjoining stall was a bull that was tied up with a rope so long that the animal was able to back out of the stall. While Morley was busy milking, the bull backed from the stall and, lowering its head, caught Morley on the horns and tossed him to the ceiling. When the man fell to the floor the bull tramped on him and made repeated attempts to gore him. Morley evaded the sharp horns and yelled for help. Other men with pitchforks attacked the brute and drove it away from its victim. Morley is severely injured.

SUSPECTED IN PLOT; TWO OFFICIALS DYING WOMAN REMAINS TRUE TO ALLEGED SWINDLER

SANTO DOMINGO, Feb. 20.—The authorities have failed to account for the gunpowder explosion at Couty, in which forty guests at a christening were injured.

There was no reason why the explosion should have been in or near the house and suspicions are entertained of an assassination plot. Communication with Couty is slow, and full details have not yet been received.

General Guzman, the host, and governor of Macoris, and General Tejera, governor of the city of Santo Domingo, are said to have been so seriously hurt that they may die.

SPANKING BY FAIR HANDS OR JAIL THEIR PLIGHT

MILFORD, Del., Feb. 20.—The young men of Gumboro public school must either submit to an old-time spanking or face a charge of assault on their pretty school mistress.

The trouble grew out of the old custom of "putting the teacher out" on St. Valentine's day. Miss Gertrude Truitt objected to this treatment, but her demonstrations were of no avail, for she was taken from the room and deported on a snowbank.

County school superintendent has now ordered that youths must submit to a humiliating whipping from the school teacher, or serve a term in jail for assault.
